

FINANCING OF BIG COMPANY RESULTS GOOD

H. G. McMahon Explains in Detail What May Be Expected By New Capital

That work in the various properties in which he and associates are interested will increase greatly during the fall months; that as a result of his recent visit east several of the most important companies operating in Goldfield and vicinity have been completely financed, and that the east is interested and will continue to be interested in the future development of Goldfield, were statements of vital importance to this district made Monday by H. G. McMahon, who is an officer in the Goldfield Deep Mines Development, Red Hill and other companies engaged in mining here and in nearby districts. He said the general outlook for mining was good in the east, particularly for Goldfield, because of stock market conditions—a most important feature of the financing of companies for mining. He said interest in the east by both big and little interests was turning to mining and mining shares and that this was particularly true of Goldfield issues because of the better opportunity for creating good market conditions on a national scale and not in any particular trading center.

Mr. McMahon arranged for the refinancing of the Deep Mines, the Goldfield Development, the Sandstorm and the Red Hill. He did this, not as an individual effort, but with the cooperation of others interested in these companies. All of the Red Hill treasury stock has been sold, he said, and the money has been paid into the treasury of the company, assuring funds for completion of the work the company is doing in its ground to open at depth the extension of the ore bodies in the Florence, and to find an answer to the problem of the east-west fault in the Florence and the effect of that fault on the ore bodies.

Mr. McMahon said he and his associates had disposed of big blocks of stock to eastern interests who mean new stockholders in the companies. George F. Redmond, one of the biggest operators in the east in matters of this kind, has become interested in the Deep Mines, and he is expected here early in September with a staff of writers and mining engineers for the purpose of going thoroughly into the situation here and in other Nevada districts. He is to start a campaign of publicity affecting all Goldfield companies. Redmond's main office is in Boston and he has 23 branch offices extending as far west as Detroit and Cleveland. Several big eastern concerns have become interested in the Goldfield Development, Mr. McMahon said, and a deal has been made for the sale of all the treasury stock of the Sandstorm, the money to be used for general development purposes.

Mr. McMahon said a firm belief of the Boston broker that deep mining in Goldfield would be a success had led to the refinancing of the Deep Mines, and that a knowledge of mine conditions and a belief in the success of further operations also had been the basis for the refinancing of other companies. He said that by the end of September "things should be in good shape here."
